Foreword

The concretization of longstanding efforts during 2012, by obtaining good results in various projects implemented by IDIS „Viitorul” represents a natural continuation of the previous achievements of our institution aimed at the modernization and Europeanization of the Republic of Moldova.

Moldova's European integration represented a national propriety in the last period. The integration costs are not so small, but we believe the benefits will be much greater. And from this point of view we consider that the Moldovan society should be informed and familiarized with the European integration projects and mechanisms, fact which would bring to this process a more support from citizens.

We want to believe that IDIS „Viitorul” has made an outstanding contribution to national priorities by implementing projects in the economic, social and administrative fields, and also by conducting numerous research studies embodied in publications, which we would like to present. It is well known that no EU Member State didn't lost its prosperity and the civilization standards after its integration. All states gained a lot. We are sure that the Republic of Moldova will also gain a lot, no matter how difficult it may be this period. In this respect, the results obtained by IDIS „Viitorul” come to support the European integration process of our country and to promote the European values and standards.

In achieving all the proposed objectives, IDIS „Viitorul” collaborates efficiently with a number of donor organizations as: the European Commission, the UNDP, Soros-Moldova,

CIPE, the Hanns Seidel Foundation, UNICEF, NED, the Friedrich Ebert Foundation, the German Marshall Fund, PASOS, AGORA, COE etc..

Another aspect that I intend to highlight relates to the training of high level expert – researches within IDIS „Viitorul”. This process, in our view, is an essential factor in building a solid foundation for a democratic society based on knowledge, who wants to become more competitive and prosperous.

In this respect, we mention with a great pleasure all the progresses obtained by our experts in preparing those studies included in the present catalog, the remarkable number of studies, as well as the promising debut of the experts who were at their first research. We also want to underline the considerable effort of IDIS „Viitorul” departments that provided specific features for the specific concerns of the addressed areas: the foreign policy, economics, public finances, regional development, public administration, European integration, energy efficiency, and security etc..

It is undisputed the fact that our team's achievements are perfect. Perfection does not have limits. We are aware that the details, on which we should work a lot create perfection, but perfection is not just a detail. One fact, however, is undeniable - the desire to support our country's European course, the desire to build a democratic country based on European values which would provide a decent living for citizens.
